

Transportation to

COVID-19 Vaccination Sites

FREE public transportation to vaccine clinics is available for Vermont residents who do not have access to their own transportation.

To request a ride, call:

833-387-7200

The Vermont Public Transportation Association (VPTA) is the central point of contact for any part of the state. VPTA will bill the ride to the appropriate funding source (Medicaid, Elderly/Disabled program or a special federal source for COVID-19 if no other funding source applies).

The rides are provided by regional public transportation providers using a combination of volunteer drivers in cars or vans/buses. These rides are ADA compliant and will accommodate disabled people as well. Whenever possible, ride requests should be made 48 hours in advance. These rides are subject to the availability of transportation resources, so advance notice is necessary to ensure services will be available.

These services are only available to people who are not currently a COVID-19 risk. Individuals who recently arrived from out-of-state still need to follow the isolation process before using public transportation. People who are COVID-19 positive, symptomatic, or close contacts of COVID-19 positive people, must be cleared for public transportation first. VPTA uses a screening tool that was developed in conjunction with the Vermont Department of Health.
